Saturday Day Speakers October 29

Michael Mariant

Michael will be giving two separate presentations

“Cultural Photography for Today’s Camera-Toting, Web-connected Travelers”

Understanding and working with the cultural differences and issues facing photographers in today’s global environment has to be one of the greatest hurdles to a newcomer in the global reportage genre.

This lecture will address the theory behind successful documentary photography and the mental and visual challenges the photographer faces while in the field.

We will look at the approach of documenting the world around us, for the sole purpose of capturing situations that we deem encapsulates a story, a moment or a slice of humanity — and the pitfalls that go with it — while challenging pre-conceived mindsets and ideals.

Key to this topic is understanding and avoiding culture shock in order to quickly assimilate yourself into your surroundings while practicing the powerful art of observation to develop the visual story that is intimate, close and unobtrusive.

“Behind the Scenes as an AP Wire Service Photographer”

Breaking news! Celebrities! Big league sports! Traveling the world to photograph the major events in history as they happen! ...

Ah... the life of an Associated Press photographer, right? Well, not really.

This lecture will take a humorous and anecdotal behind-the-scenes look at what really happens in the world of wire service photographer, .

From the breaking news to the mundane, red carpet mayhem to media circuses, the good assignments, the bad day-in, day-out ... and all the excitement that goes with it.

Truman Holzclaw

“Wide Angle Magic, The Good, Bad & Ugly!”

This program will discuss and explore the unique characteristics of using wide-angle lenses.

These characteristics will be illustrated using projected digital images.

Topics to be explored are: What is a wide angle lens? sensor sizes; Depth of field; Using filters; Distortions; Shadows; Flaring; Portraits; Macro photography; Working space; Crowds; Landscapes; Fish -eyes; Big & Small; Foreground Vs Background; Truth Vs Lies; and Go out and give it a try!

Sean Duggan

“HDR & Beyond”

High Dynamic Range (HDR) imaging techniques enable the photographer to use multiple exposures of a scene to capture a wide range of contrast that is not possible with a single shot. HDR styles can range from subtle and realistic to wildly exaggerated and illustrative.

In this session, Sean Duggan will cover the essentials of HDR camera technique as well as provide an overview of post-capture processing using Photoshop CS5, Photomatix and Nik’s HDR Efex Pro.

Sean will also cover techniques for further polishing and fine-tuning the image after the HDR process is complete.

Doug Steakley
“The Beauty of Big Sur”

California’s rugged Big Sur coastline follows Route One as it heads south from the Carmel Highlands down to San Simeon. Route One is considered one of the most beautiful drives in the world, as the rugged and rocky coast rises from the Pacific Ocean to form the towering hills and mountains of the Santa Lucia Range.

The landscape painter Francis McComas described it as “the greatest meeting of land and water in the world. In this presentation I will show images from many locations and under different conditions. I am interested in changing the shutter speeds to soften the motion of water and clouds, including long exposures by moonlight.

David Cardinal
“The Ethics of Travel Photography”

As photographers we’re rightfully proud that our hobby and our work can communicate about the peoples and the habitat of our world. But along with our passion comes a responsibility to act ethically, not just the obvious avoidance of harassment of endangered species, but embracing a forward-thinking view of the impact we have on people, cultures and nature.

In this breakout session photographer David Cardinal will explore some of the ethical quandaries facing those who travel to developing countries and wild habitats and propose some guidelines on how best to address them.

Whether you’ve been stumped by the right and wrong of giving a child a present when you take their photo or the ethics of feeding animals, you’ll learn some field-tested guidelines from David’s experiences illustrated with plenty of striking images from Southeast Asia, Africa, Alaska and Texas.

Tom Debley
“Shooting Journalism Photos: Tips from the Pros.”

Tom will look at how the journalism profession defines photojournalism, compare those concepts with the rules of photojournalism used by PSA, N4C and others, and apply these concepts with examples of some of the best news photos of 2010 and amateur images that have placed in competitions.

Each participant will receive a pocket card summarizing what constitutes a “news photograph,” a “feature news photograph,” and a list of what a judge looks for in journalism photo competition.

Dianne Jones
“How to Produce Photo Books”

Mary Macey Butler, Joe Hearst, & Gene Morita
“Photographing Cuba”

A description of the experiences of American photographers on organized photo trips to Cuba, illustrated by examples of the many different kinds of images that can be made there.

Saturday Evening, October 29 & Sunday Morning, October 30
John Paul Caponigro
